AGREEMENT TO ESTABLISH A QUASI-ENDOWMENT

Definition of a quasi-endowment (also known as a fund functioning as an endowment)

"Funds which the governing board at Brigham Young University, rather than the donor or other external agency, have determined are to be retained and invested."

The governing board (President's Council) approves the quasi-endowments that are established in recognition of an individual(s). Authority for approving departmental-named quasi-endowments has been delegated to the CFO/Administrative Vice President.

Name of the quasi-endowment _____

Note: This form must be accompanied by an "Endowment Gift Number Set-up Request", which contains information on the purpose of this quasi-endowment and the initial investment amount.

Criteria or Requirements Associated with Establishing a Quasi-Endowment:

It is understood that establishing a quasi-endowment implies a long-term commitment to hold the principal amount of these funds in perpetuity. The value of the investment in the Investment Pool will increase and decrease with the changes in the value of the underlying securities and other investments. The University does not guarantee the performance of the Investment Pool, nor does it assure that the market value will not decline. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

Terms of Agreement:

1. No appropriations, tuition & fees, or contract/grant funds have been used to fund this quasi-endowment.
2. The minimum initial investment amount to establish this quasi-endowment is $75,000. This amount may be changed from time to time by the University.
3. Funds set aside or restricted for specific purposes have not been commingled with other funds having conflicting purposes in order to meet the minimum threshold for establishing this quasi-endowment.
4. Because quasi-endowments are intended to be long term, principal may only be expended under rare circumstances with the approval of the President's Council.
5. Income from the investment of this quasi-endowment will be available on January 1st of the second year following endowment set-up and will be distributed in accordance with the current spending policy of the University.
